

Cosmi Code Summer Internship Program

Week 6- Task # 01 to 04

Task 1: Choose a niche or startup idea.

Task 2: Draft a 30-day blogging content calendar with blog titles, keywords, and goals.

Task 3: Write 2 complete blog posts (600–800 words) with SEO optimization.

Task 4: Prepare a content distribution and repurposing plan for those blogs.

Submitted by Xenobia Mustafa Khan

Intern ID: CCP\345670084

Submission Date: 20th August 2025, Wednesday

Task 1: Choose a niche or startup idea.

Niche: Mental Health Awareness

Brand: PsychMind Haven – A mental wellness space for students and young adults, offering relatable blogs, coping tools, and community support, all while raising awareness about the importance of mental health, particularly within the desi community.

Task 2: Draft a 30-day blogging content calendar with blog titles, keywords, and goals.

Date	Blog Title	Keyword(s)	Goal
Day 1	10 Signs of High-Functioning Anxiety You Shouldn't Ignore	High-functioning anxiety	Awareness & SEO
Day 3	How to Create a Journaling Habit That Actually Sticks	Journaling Prompts for Mental Health	Practical Tip & Engagement
Day 7	Anxious in Social Settings? Try These 5 Grounding Tricks That Do Wonders	Social Anxiety Grounding Techniques	Engagement
Day 10	The Science of Burnout: What's Happening in Your Brain?	Burnout recovery, Stress hormones	Education
Day 13	How to Build a Realistic Self-Care Routine (That You'll Actually Follow)	Self-Care Routine Gen Z	Traffic & Shareability
Day 16	Mental Health & Exams: Study Smarter Without Burning Out	Mental Health, Exam Season	Seasonal content & SEO
Day 20	Can't Sleep? 5 Nighttime Habits That Are Making Anxiety Worse	Anxiety and Sleep	Awareness & Engagement
Day 22	How Music Affects Your Mental Health – Backed by Actual Psychology	Music therapy, Mental Health	Education
Day 26	Overthinking Everything? Here's How to Calm Your Brain Down	Overthinking, help	SEO & Shareability
Day 30	PsychMind Haven's Top Mental Health Tips of the Month	Mental Health	Community & Lead Gen

Task 3: Write 2 complete blog posts (600–800 words) with SEO optimization

Blog #01: 10 Signs of High-Functioning Anxiety You Shouldn't Ignore

Keywords: high-functioning anxiety, symptoms of anxiety, hidden anxiety

Meta Description: Think you're doing fine on the outside, but feel exhausted on the inside? Here are 10 common signs of high-functioning anxiety to look out for — and how to take the first step toward support.

Ok, first of all, we all think that we know what anxiety looks like — but do we actually do?

Because not all anxiety shows up as panic attacks or avoiding social situations, for many people, anxiety hides beneath those great things- success, ambition, and perfectionism. This form of anxiety is called high-functioning anxiety, and it's more common than you think — especially among top-tier students, professionals, and creatives.

So Here are 10 Subtle Signs You Might be Dealing with High-Functioning Anxiety:

1. You're Always Busy — Even When You're Exhausted

You literally say yes to everything and thrive (or brag to others) on being productive, but deep down, you either are burnt out or feel burnt out. One thing to be understood is that, just like your phone can't remain at one hundred percent the whole day, you can't remain at one hundred percent throughout the whole day.

2. You Can't Relax — Guilt Sets In

Relaxing makes you uncomfortable, because there's always something else you think you "should" be doing. In other words, you feel guilty for taking a break, or even thinking about taking a break.

3. You Overthink Everything

From your texts to class participation to what you said three days ago — you replay everything in your mind, more than you like to admit, because overthinking is your talent.

4. Perfectionism is Your Default

You hold yourself to impossible standards and fear failure more than anything. Like, if you hold yourself to impossible standards, you are bound to fail at achieving those impossible standards.

5. You Hide Your Struggles

You appear calm and composed, but inside, you're anxious 24/7. Externally, you are a-ok. Mentally, you are not ok at all.

6. You Have Trouble Sleeping

Your mind races at night, and your body struggles to calm down even when you're exhausted, hence causing you to be sleep-deprived. And trust me- you aren't hiding your dark circles.

7. You Need Control

You like plans, to-do lists, and backup plans — uncertainty feels terrifying. And the second something occurs that wasn't a part of your agenda, you tend to panic.

8. You Struggle with Self-Doubt

Despite your overwhelming accomplishments, you constantly feel like you're not doing enough, even if you have like an achievement list of a fictional hero mentor who has achieved every single thing except one thing that the hero manages to achieve.

9. You Get Irritated Easily

The smallest things overwhelm you, even if you pretend that everything's fine.

10. You Numb the Feelings

You turn to distractions — scrolling, caffeine, or constant noise — to avoid being alone with your thoughts.

So... What Happens Now?

Thus, high-functioning anxiety may not be clinically recognized, but it's very real — and very valid. If you relate to most of these signs, you deserve support. Talk to someone you trust, consider journaling your thoughts, and remember: mental wellness isn't a luxury — it's a necessity.

Blog #02: How to Build a Realistic Self-Care Routine (That You'll Actually Follow)

Keywords: self-care routine, mental health habits, realistic self-care

Meta Description: Want to take care of your mental health but don't know where to start? Here's how to build a simple and sustainable self-care routine that works for you — not against you.

Let's face it — most self-care advice online feels... a bit much, if not overwhelming.

Because who has so much time to spare? Not everyone has time for 2-hour morning routines or weekly spa nights. For students, working professionals, or just about anyone juggling daily stress, real self-care needs to be realistic — and sustainable.

At PsychMind Haven, we believe that self-care should support your life, not overwhelm it. So here's how to build a low-pressure, high-impact self-care routine that you'll actually stick to, and bonus- affordable.

Step 1: Start Small — and Be Honest

Ask yourself this. What do you need right now?

Sleep? Quiet? Less screen time? A break from people?

Choose one or two simple actions (like drinking water after waking up or stepping outside for 5 minutes) and start there. Always start with small goal.

Step 2: Create a “Minimum” Routine

Forget perfection — aim for bare minimum care on tough days.

Example: Brush teeth, wash face, stretch for 2 minutes, breathe for 1.

This gives you structure without pressure and helps avoid guilt spirals. Moreover, this will actually help you to maintain consistency.

Step 3: Schedule Micro Moments

If you wait for the “right time,” it may never come.

Add 5-minute self-care pockets into your day — like breathing exercises between tasks or journaling during lunch.

Step 4: Make It Joyful, Not Just Functional

Self-care isn’t only about hygiene or productivity.

It’s also dancing to your playlist, rewatching your comfort show, or texting a friend. Joy is healing.

Step 5: Reassess Weekly

Your needs change — and so should your routine.

Ask yourself: What worked this week? What drained me?

Adjust accordingly without judgment.

Final Thoughts

A self-care routine should feel like kindness, not punishment.

You don’t need to earn it. You don’t need to do it perfectly.

You just need to show up for yourself — gently, consistently, and on your terms.

Because you deserve that much.

Task 4: Prepare a content distribution and repurposing plan for those blogs.

The two blogs I have covered in previous task:

1. 10 Signs of High-Functioning Anxiety You Shouldn’t Ignore
2. How to Build a Realistic Self-Care Routine (That You’ll Actually Follow)

1. Distribution Plan

- Social Media Platforms

Platform	Strategy	Frequency
Instagram	Carousel posts highlighting 3–5 signs and self-care tips; Reels with 15-seconds with voiceovers	2x per blog
LinkedIn	Professional summaries with key takeaways; mental health awareness angle for students & early-career pros	1x per blog
Pinterest	Infographics with quotes, checklist visuals, and blog title overlays	2–3 pins per blog
Facebook	Share links with a discussion question to encourage engagement	1 share per blog

○ Email Newsletter Strategy

- Subject Line Ideas:
 - ❖ “Anxiety in Disguise: 10 Signs to Watch Out For”
 - ❖ “The Self-Care Routine That Actually Works”
- Content:
 - ❖ Short blog preview + direct link + CTA: “Reply and tell us your go-to self-care practice!”
- Timing:
 - ❖ Send within 2–3 days of publishing each blog

2. Repurposing Plan

Format	Blog 1: Anxiety	Blog 2: Self-Care
Instagram Carousel	“10 Subtle Signs of High-Functioning Anxiety”	“5 Steps to a Self-Care Routine You’ll Stick To”
Reel/TikTok	15–30 sec reel: “Ever felt anxious but no one noticed?”	30-sec: “This one self-care shift changed my mental health...”
Infographic (Canva)	Visual flow of anxiety symptoms with colors and icons	Visual checklist of realistic daily self-care tasks
LinkedIn Post	Professional breakdown of signs with a mental wellness CTA	Tips for productivity-minded self-care
PDF Download/Lead Magnet	“Your Quick Guide to High-Functioning Anxiety”	“Create-Your-Own Self-Care Plan Template”
Newsletter Snippet	Quote + stat + CTA to read full post	Checklist preview + link to full blog